Statistical Areas Redesigned

On June 27, 1983, the U.S. Government's Office of Management and Budget released a new list of metropolitan statistical areas designated in accordance with the standards established by the most recent periodic review by the Federal Committee on Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas. These standards were established for use with the 1980 Census of Population data.

The designations became effective June 30, 1983, thus the data on statistical areas in this edition of the MARKET GUIDE cannot be compared with the statistical area data in previous editions.

Gone is the old Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA). The new terminology applying to all "free-standing" SMSAs — those not qualifying as part of a larger consolidated area — is Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA). All qualifying SMSAs located within consolidated areas have been redesignated Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas (PMSAs). The consolidated areas themselves — metropolitan complexes with over 1,000,000 population within which primary areas have qualified for recognition, formerly known as Standard Consolidated Statistical Areas (SCSAs) — have been renamed Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Areas (CMSAs).

In addition to changes in terminologies, there have been significant changes in criteria. Size classifications have been introduced, and the old requirement that a designated statistical area have a central city with a population of 50,000 or more has been changed with more emphasis on the urbanization of the area.

The new criteria call for "either a city with a population of at least 50,000, or a Bureau of Census urbanized area of at least 50,000 and a total metropolitan statistical area population of at least 100,000."

A current list of statistical areas is shown on pages 5-10 of this edition of the MARKET GUIDE and the new criteria and explanations are on page 5. Those who use standard statistical areas in their planning should be sure to check these pages.

We thank the daily newspapers in the U.S.A. and Canada for their help in getting information about the markets where their newspapers are published. This enables us to provide marketing people with information from people who best know the market.

How to use the 1984 Editor & Publisher Market Guide

Preceded by pages of general information designed to facilitate its use, the data in this MARKET GUIDE is presented in four sections:

1. Market Ranking Tables
These tables show, ranked by size according to E&P estimates for 1984, the population, disposable income, total retail sales, total food sales, and income per household of all MSAs, PMSAs and larger counties and cities of the U.S.A.

2. Individual Market Surveys-United States
Facts and figures about all United States daily newspaper markets, listed alphabetically by state and city in the U.S.A., followed by Puerto Rico. The sample survey below shows the information included, and how the data is generally shown. A state map introduces surveys for each state, showing MSAs, PMSAs, CMSAs, county boundaries, location of all daily newspaper cities, and county seat cities without daily newspapers.

3. Individual Market Surveys-Canada
Facts and figures about all Canadian daily newspaper markets. The map for Canada shows national and provincial capitals, and location of all daily newspaper cities.

4. Sales, Population and Income Tables
E&P 1984 retail sales estimates, total, and in nine categories, with number of stores in each, for all MSAs or PMSAs, U.S. counties and daily newspaper cities. Tables are arranged alphabetically by state, followed by tables of estimated 1984 population, personal income—total, per capita and per household; also number of farms and value of crops and livestock.

Any businessman worth his Perrier can tell you what marketing conditions are like in, say, Pittsburgh or Baltimore.

But ask him about Bogalusa or Bartlesville, and he's liable to choke on his twist.

It's no wonder. A pretty hefty percentage of all the sales and marketing activity in this country takes place outside the Top 20 markets. But very little of the marketing research does.

So it's possible to have quite a few markets—maybe even your best ones—that you're not at all familiar with.

That's where the ACB Marketing Intelligence Tracking System, Mintsystem for short, can deliver.

At ACB, we monitor all the advertising placed in every daily and Sunday newspaper in America—all 1,760 of them. Plus hundreds of the major weeklies.

And after looking at all that advertising in all those papers, we're able to put together a mighty clear picture of the local marketing activity for any product and any brand in any category in any town anywhere in this country.

So if you've got a feeling your research is missing some of the good parts, you should give our book a read.

Just call us toll-free at 1-800-847-4600 (In New York call 212/685-7300) and ask for your sample Mintsystem report.

RETAIL SALES ESTIMATES

The basis for kind-of-business classifications used in the Editor & Publisher Market Guide is the same as used by the U.S. Department of Commerce in the Census of Retail Trade. This follows the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual (Executive Office of the President, Office of Management and Budget, Standard Industrial Classification Manual, 1972).

The 1977 Census of Retail Sales conducted by the U.S. Department of Commerce was a gigantic task and required considerable time for evaluation and tabulation. The 1977 Census is the basis for the Retail Sales Estimates included in this 1983 edition. However, strict comparison of the data for the 1972 and 1977 censuses is limited by the following factors:

Geographic boundaries of a number of areas have changed between 1972 and 1977 censuses, because of annexation and redefinition of Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas and other boundary changes.

In 1977, the Internal Revenue Service assigned a more detailed classification code to business tax returns. As a result, data for certain kinds of business are more detailed than could be shown in 1972.

Omitted from the 1977 sales statistics are sales and other taxes collected from customers as well as carrying charges or other charges for credit. These taxes/charges reported in the 1972 census have been estimated at about $10 billion for the United States as a whole.

In the 1972 census the "legal form of organization" was based on data only for establishments with a total company employment of 250 persons or more. In 1977, this was determined on the basis of the response to the legal form of organization inquiry on the census form.

This Miscellaneous Retail Store category is not included in the Editor & Publisher Tables of Estimated Retail Sales.

For your quick reference, we publish a complete list of the major group classifications of stores included in the Tables of Estimated Retail Sales (numbers following names are SIC codes). PT following the SIC codes refers to "part"; n.e.c. refers to "not elsewhere classified."

DEFINITIONS AND NOTES

ABC—Adjacent to certain population figures and newspaper circulations in the surveys in this book are references to the Audit Bureau of Circulations. The ABC issues standardized statements of the circulation of publisher members, verifies the figures shown in these statements by auditors' examination and disseminates the circulation data to advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers.

Each publisher's statement and audit report issued to members covers the quantity, quality, distribution of circulation and circulation methods.

ADVERTISING & MERCHANDISING DATA—The daily newspaper is the prime source of information on local conditions in each of the newspaper market areas. The name, address and telephone number of people able to supply more information about these areas appears in paragraph 14 of each survey.

CIRCULATION FIGURES—The March 1983 figures appear in most of the surveys. Where March 1983 figures are not available, proper notation is made. Also indicated with the figure is whether the circulation is verified by ABC (Audit Bureau of Circulations), VAC (Verified Audit Circulation) or comes from a sworn statement by the publisher of the newspaper.

CITY ZONE (CZ)—The corporate limits of the city in which the newspaper is published, plus in some cases, the contiguous areas built up adjacent to or surrounding the city of publication. This could also include more than one city, where the areas involved are contiguous areas.

CONSOLIDATED METROPOLITAN STASTICAL AREA (CMSA)—The larger geographical area of which Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas are components.

CONSUMER SPENDABLE INCOME—See "Disposable Personal Income" below.

DISPOSABLE PERSONAL INCOME—Sometimes referred to as "Effective Buying Income" or "Consumer Spendable Income", is equal to current income received individuals, unincorporated businesses and non-profit institutions, from all sources. It includes all that is received as wages, salaries, and commissions, including pensions, trust and welfare funds, labor, farm, non-farm, professional, rental, dividends, personal interest and transfer payments after taxes.

The amounts usually deducted for income, property, and other taxes not deductible as business expenses, as well as other general government revenues, such as fines, penalties, and so on, have been subtracted.

EFFECTIVE BUYING INCOME—See "Disposable Personal Income" above.

ESTIMATES—Figures on which estimates are based are always U.S. Government figures (U.S. Census) or, in Canada, the latest available Census figures from Statistics Canada. Any other figures are either identified as to source or considered "local estimates."

FARM DATA—County Data: The figures used in these tables for the counties are the latest released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The most recent agriculture census was made in 1978.

State Data: State totals of crops and livestock are released annually by the U.S Department of Agriculture. State totals used in these tables are from the most recent USDA Statistical Bulletin. Footnotes at the bottom of each table show the year and source of data.

HOUSEHOLDS—Not to be confused with "families." The term "household" corresponds to "private dwelling unit" as defined in the Census Bureau's current operations, which would include all persons occupying a house or an apartment together.

INCOME PER HOUSEHOLD (DISPOSABLE INCOME)—The total average income earned or received by each household with direct or indirect taxes deducted.

METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA (MSA)—A large population nucleus with adjacent communities which have a high degree of economic and social integration with that nucleus. Metropolitan Statistical Areas are designated and defined by the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce. A complete list of these areas, with explanation of the standards applied to their designation, appears in the following pages.

NEIGHBORHOOD SHOPPING AREA (OR DISTRICT)—Indicates specific street locations of active retail trade.

PASSENGER AUTOS—These figures are obtained from the various state departments of motor vehicles, where available, and generally on a county basis. However, in some states no county breakdown is available. Motor vehicle figures in Canada are obtained from the Transportation and Communications Division of Statistics Canada.

PERSONAL INCOME—See "Disposable Personal Income" above.

PRIMARY MARKET AREA—Considered to be that geographical area in which the newspaper provides primary editorial and advertising service. Area consists of contiguous census units (none larger than a county), and ABC rules require that paid circulation and ABC current estimate of households within each county or portion thereof shall be considered.

PRIMARY METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA (PMSA)—A Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) of more than 1 million population which meets additional social and economic requirements and, together with one or more other PMSAs, forms a Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Area (CMSA). For more information, see explanation on following pages.

RETAIL SALES ESTIMATE TABLES—Based upon the latest available (1977) U.S. Department of Commerce Census of Retail Sales, brought up-to-date, with considerations given to conditions and developments since the Census figures were collected.

Sales and "Kinds of Retail Stores" (as well as estimates) are reported as in the Bureau of Census reports, by type of store in which the sales are made (using the Standard Industrial Classification Manual codes and descriptions all listed in this volume) rather than by the products sold. For example, many non-food items are sold in food stores.

The sum of the nine types of stores will not add up to the total of retail sales estimates for each area since there is also a miscellaneous classification of stores not included in these tables.

In some areas (cities or counties), retail sales totals and retail sales per household exceed the figures shown for total income per household, this is because of the influence or attraction an area may have on the shopping patterns or habits of those who live adjacent to or outside it.

RETAIL TRADING ZONE (RTZ)—The area beyond the City Zone whose residents regularly trade to an important degree with the retail merchants in the City Zone. In establishing the boudaries of the RTZ, consideration is given to the transportation facilities, traffic flow, traveling time and schedules by both public facilities, private cars and common carriers; as well as charge accounts, phone orders and regular delivery service from the central or City Zone to the outlying areas.

SHOPPING CENTER—The term is intended to apply to developments with a number and a variety of stores, including chains, supermarkets or banks, with extensive parking facilities, and located on or near a main highway.

STANDARD METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA (SMSA)—These are listed as described by the Office of Management and Budget. A complete list of these, with a full explanation, appears in the front of this Market Guide.

STANDARD CONSOLIDATED STATISTICAL AREA (SCSA)—A standard statistical area used to facilitate the presentation and analysis of data on large concentrations of metropolitan population. A complete list of these areas, appears in the front of this Market Guide.

STATISTICS CANADA—Canadian Government agency in Ottawa responsible for all official statistics covering population, retail sales, etc.

STORES—Stores are typed according to the definition of the 1977 U.S. Census of Business (Retail Trade) which use the Standard Industrial Classification Manual codes and descriptions.

SUPERMARKET—This term involves these three conditions: annual sales volume of at least $1 million; four departments; dairy, meat, produce and groceries; and a grocery department that is entirely self-service.

METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREAS (MSAs, PMSAs and CMSAs)

METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA definitions, which replaced the familiar Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) on June 30, 1983, were first developed and issued in the late 1940s. Their major purpose was to enable all federal statistical agencies to use consistent geographic definitions in the study of metropolitan characteristics. These definitions made it possible to compare more accurately population, housing, employment, trade and industry statistics. State and local governments, as well as the private sector, soon found these definitions most useful.

Metropolitan Statistical Areas are defined according to a set of detailed standards prepared by the Federal Committee on MSAs which advises the Office of Management and Budget. These standards are periodically reviewed in connection with each Decennial Census of Population.

In June 1983, the Committee released the results of a comprehensive review; this contained revisions in the criteria for designating MSAs, as well as new concepts in titling and classifying them. The old Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) was shortened to Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA). If an area has more than 1 million population and meets certain other specified requirements, it is termed a Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Area (CMSA), which consists of major components classified as Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas (PMSA).

The general concept underlying the MSA is that of a geographic area consisting of a large population nucleus together with adjacent communities which have a high degree of economic and social integration with that nucleus.

An MSA includes one city of at least 50,000 or more inhabitants or an urbanized area of at least 50,000 with a total metropolitan population of at least 100,000. MSAs are defined in terms of entire counties; each MSA has one or more central counties, containing the area's main population concentration. In addition to the county (or counties) containing the main city (or cities), an MSA may also include outlying counties which have close economic and social relationships with the central counties. Such counties must meet certain standards regarding "metropolitan character," such as population density, and must have a specified level of commuting to the central county(ies). For example, counties with a commuting rate of 50 percent or more must have a population density of at least 25 persons per square mile. When the commuting rate is lower than this, the density requirement proportionately increases.

In the six New England states, however, MSAs are defined in terms of cities and towns rather than entire counties. Because smaller areas are used, the total MSA population requirement is reduced from 100,000 to 75,000.

The official title of an MSA always includes the state or states into which it extends and the name of the largest city in that MSA. It might include several cities—as many as three—all dependent upon relative and minimum populations of the central city and other cities in the MSA. When more than one city appears in the MSA title, they are usually ordered by their relative populations.

In total, there are 275 recognized MSAs and 23 CMSAs, consisting of 78 PMSAs. Most MSA definitions are not subject to change until after the next national census. However, a few new MSAs may be added each year, usually because additional cities have reached the 50,000 population level according to official population estimates.

An area with more than 1 million population may be defined as a PRIMARY METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA. A PMSA is a large urbanized county or a cluster of counties that exhibit very strong social and economic links. Local opinion, obtained through Congressional delegation, is also a very strong factor in determining if an area will be designated a PMSA. The specific standards for defining PMSAs are as follows:

1. The area must include at least one county that has a population of more than 100,000;
2. At least 60 percent of this county's population must be classified as urban; and
3. Less than 50 percent of its workers commute to jobs outside the county.

The larger area of which all PMSAs are component parts is defined as a CONSOLIDATED METROPOLITAN STATISTICAL AREA.

The complete criteria used in defining metropolitan statistical areas can be obtained directly from the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230.

FOR REACHING EXECUTIVES WHERE THEY LIVE!

If a rare East Coast earthquake should tumble Fairfield County, Connecticut into adjacent Long Island Sound, twenty-one of the nation's largest industrial companies would lose not only their handsome headquarters buildings and hundreds of home office employees, but their top executives, together with luxurious homes, golf clubs, company jets, yachts and harbors, and some of the highest salaries paid anywhere. In fact, exactly 10% of 1982 Fortune 500 companies have their head offices in New England, with the percentage of the second 500 even higher. What's more, many are in booming high tech manufacture, and among the region's largest employers, with plants scattered around our six states — one of the main reasons why New England unemployment is lower, and incomes higher than the rest of the country.

New England's sophisticated industry, with its highly educated management and personnel, has greatly spurred the growith of the finance and service industries and, consequently, retail sales. New England daily newspapers, with home coverage exceeding that of most other regions, can claim to be among the nation's most effective advertising media.

EDITOR & PUBLISHER'S MARKET RANKINGS

This year EDITOR & PUBLISHER has once again compiled market-ranking tables to help advertising and marketing executives plan programs for the coming year.

These tables have been a feature of the E&P Market Guide since they first appeared in the 1964 edition. The rankings, based on E&P estimates for 1984, are shown for five categories: population, disposable personal income, total retail sales, food sales, and income per household.

Rankings are provided for all cities or communities in the United States in which newspapers are published on a daily basis for all counties whether daily newspapers are published in them or not, and for all standard metropolitan statistical areas in the United States, as defined by the Office of Management and Budget.

The tables are tabulated by computer and are based on the 1980 U.S. Census and the 1977 Census of Business, and 1984 research estimates by the Marketing Economics Institute Ltd.

Leading U.S. cities, counties and metropolitan statistical areas ranked according to EDITOR & PUBLISHER estimates for 1984

There's an easy way to keep up with the country's No. 1 advertising medium . . . NEWSPAPERS.

READ EDITOR & PUBLISHER EVERY WEEK!

The more you know about the proper use of media—and the media mix—the more successful you'll be in your marketing job. That's why you should be reading E&P every week, with all the latest news and information about newspapers, the primary advertising medium.

E&P brings you newspaper news every week—advertising, circulation, format, finance, markets, people, production systems. What's more, in feature sections and special issues, Editor & Publisher regularly supplies you with important newspaper information and figures not available anywhere else: Monthly advertising linage figures on key newspaper markets, a monthly section on mechanical equipment, special financial data, and much more.

For just $35 a year, you can have all this information at your fingertips. Why not order your subscription today. Write to:

How to reach out, grab a New Englander and shake him by his down vest.

If you want to reach out and grab the Boston metro market—and the rest of New England for that matter—consider the newspaper that most New Englanders reach for: The Boston Globe.

The Globe's daily circulation is 506,465. And on Sundays, it's 779,134.* That means an adult readership of 1.6 million daily, 2.2 million Sundays. No other vehicle in the market gives you this kind of coverage.

But the Globe doesn't just deliver big numbers. It also puts you in touch with the best educated, most interested and well-to-do audience in New England. People with money to spend in what Adweek Magazine has called the *third hottest growth market in the country.

Naturally, any publication that offers advertisers important readers must offer its readers important writing. The Globe does.

The Boston Globe has won more than its share of graphics and editorial awards, including its 9th Pulitzer Prize, awarded in 1983, for national reporting.

Finally, The Globe lets you talk to specific audiences with a variety of special sections.

The Boston Globe: All you need to reach the best in Boston.

- At Home. Friday section devoted to the thousands of New Englanders who are devoted to making their home a better place to live.
- Sports Plus. Friday's special sports section: goes beyond standings and scores to bring Boston's fanatic fans the whole story. And bring advertisers men, 18-49.
- The Boston Globe Magazine. Award-winning rotogravure publication that's #1 in the country in retail advertising, #2 in total ad volume.
- Sci-Tech. New Monday section covering the latest in science, health, technology.
- TV Week. The TV magazine with a larger circulation in Boston than TV Guide!
- Business Extra. Every Tuesday, local, national and international business news and how it impacts the New England business community. It's one of the biggest advertising successes in Globe history and a smart way to catch business people.
- The Boston Globe Food Pages. New England's most attractive and complete newspaper food section. Read every Wednesday by people in the Boston metro market interested in recipes, nutrition and saving money.
- Calendar Magazine. Thursday leisure guide that's popular with all our readers and especially Boston's enormous audience of young people (18-35).
- Boston Globe Classified. Every day. Far and away the #1 classified section in New England—with 145 categories, more than 26 million lines of advertising a year, and obviously fantastic results.

When you add it all up, The Boston Globe is all you really need to shake up New England.

The Boston Globe

Every day, more than 1.6 million New Englanders say "The Globe's Here!"

A bird's eye view.

From a national perspective, Phoenix has always been an important part of the big picture.

Because of an explosive growth pattern and a noticeable skew toward upscale demographics, Phoenix has long been an attractive market to national advertisers.

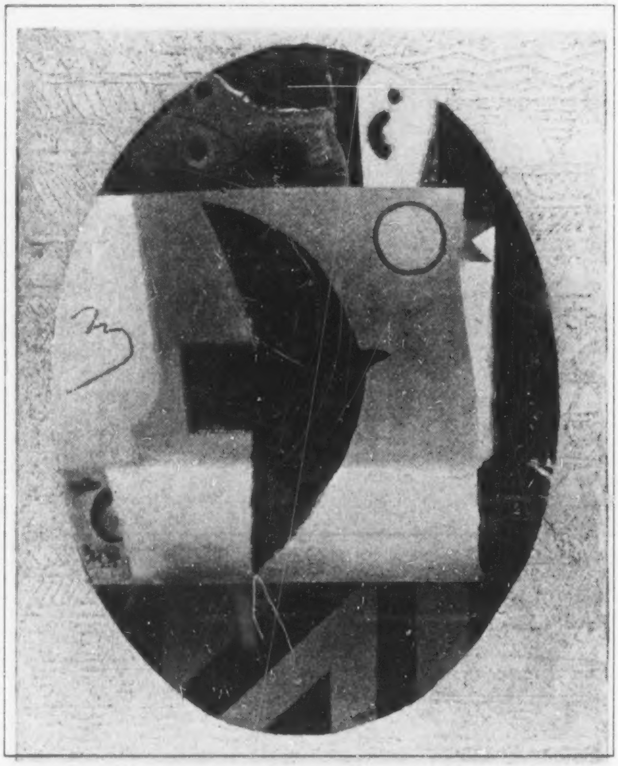
Phoenix is now firmly entrenched as a "top 25" market. And, as a whole, Phoenix residents still tend to be younger, better-educated and more affluent than the national norm.

The median age in Phoenix is 30.5. Half of all adults are college-educated. And 40% enjoy annual household incomes of $25,000 or more.

Seven out of ten of these upscale adults are reached with an average daily issue of The Arizona Republic/The Phoenix Gazette.

Across the nation, few major metro newspapers deliver comparable media dominance of such a rapidly emerging audience. And few major markets have such a decidedly upscale audience to offer.

Phoenix. It's a rare bird indeed.



THE PHOENIX BIRD by Max Papart. This is his vision of the mythical Phoenix bird that consumed itself on a pyre of spices and was reborn. A commissioned painting from the Collection of The Arizona Republic/The Phoenix Gazette.

The Bakersfield Californian
Californian

In Kern County, We're Ahead of The Times.

Actually, it's no contest. If you think you're covering Bakersfield and Kern County when you buy the Los Angeles Times, better think again.

In fact, the Los Angeles Times and the Herald-Examiner combined have only 10.6% penetration into the Bakersfield/Kern County market.

The Californian, on the other hand, has a household penetration of 50%, and circulation is up 5.1% vs. a population increase of 2.2%.

The Bakersfield/Kern County Market is Number One in Personal Income Annual Growth among California Metro Markets and Number Two in Population Growth among California Markets, 100,000 or more.

BAKERSFIELD/KERN COUNTY
– THE IDEAL TEST MARKET

If you're planning on testing your next campaign, consider Bakersfield/Kern County and The Californian. The market is ideal. It's isolated from outside media influence. Because of the market size, advertising rates are economical. And you need consider only one newspaper, The Californian.

Whether a test market campaign, or a continuing advertising program, you belong in The Californian. Because we read you.

For complete market information, rates, etc., please call 805-395-7249.

12 - RETAILING: Principal Shopping Centers-Los Angeles is unique in that shopping centers are spread throughout the market and each represents a major shopping center for that area. Downtown Los Angeles thus represents one of many. It extends eight blocks N. & S. from 1st St. to 9th St. & 7 blocks E. & W. from Spring St. to Figueroa. In discussing the retailing structure of Los Angeles, Orange County, which is part of the marketing area and part of the primary market or city and retail trading zone of Los Angeles metropolitan newspapers, becomes an integral part. All following figures are, therefore, for Los Angeles and Orange Counties.
Neighborhood Shopping Centers-In the Los Angeles Marketing Area there are 107 incorporated cities with their central shopping districts and community shopping centers. 5,867 to 20

That's the score in Denver. Since The Denver Post became a morning newspaper, we've gained 5,867 new subscribers while the other paper added only 20* And The Post has the largest Sunday circulation of any Colorado newspaper ever.

Why is The Post getting such big numbers? Well, maybe it's our Sunday Sports section. After all, it's rated number one in the country by the Associated Press Sportswriters.

Or it could be our comprehensive coverage of business, housing, fashion and food. Or any number of sections that have made us Colorado's best newspaper.

So when you want to make a buy in Denver, reach for the paper that more new subscribers reach for. The Denver Post.

Upper Hand.

Now Atlanta's top newspapers put more readers within your grasp.

The new Scarborough National Newspaper Audience Study confirms that Atlanta Journal and Constitution readership in metro Atlanta is higher than ever before. For the first time we can deliver over a million Atlanta adult readers on an average Sunday. And over 800,000 Atlanta adults on an average weekday.

Latest circulation data confirms this upward trend. Total circulation is up for the combined daily, for Sunday and for our Saturday WEEKEND edition.

So, if you'd like to gain the upper hand in Atlanta, remember the Atlanta Journal and Constitution. We're the growth medium in a growth market.

And more than ever before, we're the best advertising buy in Atlanta.

Hands down.

The 50th State is now #4

Hawaii ranks 4th nationwide in per household retail sales, and 4th in median household effective buying income (EBI).*

The Honolulu Advertiser and the Honolulu Star-Bulletin cover the entire state with a single discounted unit rate. On Oahu, the major market area, these newspapers reach more than seven out of ten households. There is only one way to reach the booming Honolulu market and 4 million tourists.

When you are looking for a market to test a new product or service, consider South Central Indiana and the Tribune-Star.

Test market the heartland.

The Terre Haute SMSA, located between Chicago, Evansville, Indianapolis and St. Louis, is home to a cross section of middle America in terms of geography and demographics:

★ Population 176,583
★ Men 48%, Women 52%
★ Median age: 30.6
★ Average family size: 3.16
★ Occupations: 53.3% Blue collar, 46.7% White collar
★ Median family income: $20,683
★ Retail sales in 1980: $950+million
(Omni-Dataline market study, 1983)

So, if you are interested in reaching a slice of middle America with one efficient buy, remember the Terre Haute SMSA and the newspaper that serves it, the Tribune-Star.
